

BLIND MEN SEE WITH THEIR EARS

Every Sound of Street Has Meaning For Person Without Sight.

To hear all the noises of the city, the street cars, the many vehicles that come and go, the fire wagons, the horses' hoofs, the footsteps of men and women as they hurry along, but to see nothing, absolutely nothing. This is the experience of a blind man who sits all day on a veranda in this city. A multitude of sounds on a dark night, this is the blind man's day time in the city.

But these noises mean more to him than to persons who can see. Those who have eyes and do not pay much attention to the ordinary sounds of the city unless they are unusually loud and harsh. But the blind man takes notice of them all from the very faintest to the loudest. He has them all classified in his mind and is very skillful in determining the source whence they come.

"I want to know," the blind man says, "the same as other people." A blind person can feel his way home, can feel the face of his watch to tell the time, can dress and undress without much trouble, can go from room to room in his house and find the things he wants but he can't feel everything that goes by him in the street. He must learn what they are by the sounds they make. Nothing that moves on the earth is absolutely noiseless, not even the smallest insects. It is the fault of the ear if the sounds are not heard.

He knows the bells. The blind man is familiar with all the different bells that ring in the city and he can distinguish them far off; the street car bells, the bells on the ambulances, and the fire department wagons. From the sounds that the different vehicles make he can determine whether they are busses, carriages, loaded wagons or motor cars.

He pays particular attention to the footfall of the persons who pass on the sidewalk, and he knows from the pattern of the feet whether they are children or grown-up people and whether they are large or small, men or women. He hears the jangling steps and the ones that hurried by. The drunkard is known by his unsteady walk and the proud man by the way he puts down his foot.

The voices of the crowd. The most interesting sounds that he hears are the voices of the passing crowd. From morning until night he catches broken fragments of conversations, a "crazy quilt" of talk, now then a complete sentence, but generally a few words only. These are the words the blind man says he hears the most. "Fine day," "horrid weather," "to-morrow," lots of fun," "handsome clothes," "cow," "good-by."

"I sit here all day and listen," the blind man said this morning. "It is only a world of sound to me, but I am familiar with every noise and to me each one has a meaning." "I have made a special study of the human voice," he said. "I can judge a person's age from the sound of the voice, I can generally guess within a year and have done so many times. It is easy enough to distinguish the voices of children. An old man's voice trembles. A middle-aged business man speaks with precision and firmness."

"A young man of about twenty-one years old talks with confidence. Ten years later he will speak with more hesitation. Girls and young women have 'sweet' voices, but generally a little harshness begins to come in a woman's voice when she is 25 years old, but if she is made happy her voice will mellow with age. Sorrow takes the melody out of women's voices."

"Everybody should know," says G. G. Hays, a prominent business man of Bluff, Mo., that Bucklen's Arnica Salve is the quickest and surest healing salve ever applied to a sore, burn or wound, or to a case of piles. I've used it and know what I'm talking about. Guaranteed by all druggists, 25c.

Enslaved by a Pirate

Or, Robert's Rendezvous With the Red-Handed Rovers.
By F. W. Schaefer.

"SPAT!" ROBERT LET DRIVE HIS RIGHT.

CHAPTER III.
"Let me ask you, what kind of a pirate is this anyhow?" asked Robert, indignantly, turning to Col. Crust. "Isn't there going to be any more, or massacre, or sitting on a dead man's chest?"

"Dowse my halibuts, but we ain't on the Spanish main yet," Col. Crust said. "Wait till we get on the Spanish main."

"I believe I've been stung," said our hero frowning. "You've lured me away from home with your trow of near-buccaneers, and spoiled my bright future as the town mischief. I've got a mind to bat you in the nose."

"Don't you dare," replied the pirate, drawing back his hand as if to give Robert a sharp slap.

Robert doubled up his fists, which were each the size of a hen's egg, and made dangerous motions with them as boys do when they are beginning to get ready to commence a fierce combat.

The pirate was game. He put a chip on his shoulder.

DRIVE HIS RIGHT.

"Kn-n-nock it off if you ain't a 'frail cat.'"

Robert stepped up and pushed it off the burly shoulder of the sea rover.

"MUTINY! MUTINY!" bellowed Col. Crust. "Up men and at him!" "Oh, fiddle!" our hero murmured. With a roar, 17 pirates came at him. Then they turned right round and came away again. They could not bear Robert's flashing eye. He made it flash till they were thoroughly cowed.

"Shucks," the pirate chief said in a vexed tone of voice.

"Spat! Robert let drive his right and struck Col. Crust a stunning blow. Col. Crust tottered, looked about him speculatively, and fell heavily into a Morris chair.

"Now look what you've done," he said. "Ain't you sorry?"

"Forgive me," said Robert. "I did not mean to kill you."

"Oh, don't mention it," said the pirate gloomily. "Don't mind me."

Robert was equal to the emergency. "Well, I wasn't going to, you know."

FUEL COMPANY CARES FOR ITS MEN

Dawson, N. M., Is Being Built For Their Pleasure and Profit.

Dawson, N. M., August 7.—(Special.)—The Dawson Fuel company, a Phelps-Dodge interest, of this place is just completing a series of buildings here which are designed wholly for the ethical and esthetic cultivation of their five thousand employees.

It is the policy of the company to allow no other interest than its own to hold or control any property within the limits of their holdings, which comprise a scope of country nearly sixty miles square, and so no church or theatre may be established here which would be outside of the control of the company.

School system. But the company is not neglectful of the moral, mental or physical welfare of its employees and so it has established here a splendid school system for which it has erected at its own cost, three large school buildings, a hospital, an immense opera house, and the latest in the city is a Protestant church building. A Catholic building has already been built and is in use.

New Church. The new church building is to be occupied by the Presbyterian denomination, and only one Protestant church is allowed on the field.

The church building is a commodious affair and will seat a congregation of five hundred people. A minister's house is also built in conjunction with the church building.

The large amphitheatre which is designed for the entertainment of Dawson will have an immense auditorium seating 2,000 people. The stage alone will seat 500 and will be arranged on a dance floor also.

Hall for Lodges. A special hall will be set aside as a meeting place for the various orders.

For each lodge meeting there is a dressing room, and a locker will be provided, and there is sufficient accommodation for eight lodges.

A splendid park for base ball and other outdoor sports has been laid out and a grand stand built to seat over a thousand people, beside liberal accommodation for the bleachers.

The interest taken in the social welfare of the many thousands of employees is a splendid endorsement of the liberal and large hearted spirit of the superintendent, E. L. Carpenter, who has charge also of the large lumber interests of the company at Alamogordo, which employs upwards of a thousand men.

I will mail you free, to prove merit, samples of my Dr. Shoop's Restorative, and my Book on either Dyspepsia, The Heart or The Kidneys. Troubles of the Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys are merely symptoms of a deeper ailment. Don't make the only. Symptom treatment is treating the result of your ailment, and not the cause. Weak Stomach nerves—the inside nerves—mean Stomach weakness, always. And the Heart, and Kidneys as well, have their controlling or inside nerves. Weaken these nerves, and you inevitably have weak vital organs. Here is where Dr. Shoop's Restorative has made its fame. No other remedy even claims to treat the "inside nerves." Weakness for bloating, biliousness, bad breath or complexion, use Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Write me today for sample and free Book. Dr. Shoop, Racine, Wis. The Restorative is sold by all dealers.

For an Impaired Appetite. To improve the appetite and strengthen the digestion try a few doses of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. Mr. J. H. Seitz, of Detroit, Mich., says: "They restored my appetite when impaired, relieved me of a bloated feeling and caused a pleasant and satisfactory movement of the bowels." Price 25 cents. Samples free. All druggists.
